

WORKNOW 20/21

The future of work has arrived.

The future of work is no longer in the future. It has arrived.

Accelerated by a global pandemic, historic business shuttering and unemployment levels, and a society-changing racial equality movement, organizations are using Future of Work principles today to survive to tomorrow. Operational agility, workforce adaptability and resiliency, and a heightened people-centric consciousness are among Future of Work tenets that are no longer luxuries reserved for future action.

The HR Leadership Group of Northeast Ohio's 2020/2021 program year is exploring how Future of Work principles and practices are being embraced and employed in workforces throughout the country and here in our own region.
